

CONTENTS

PREFACE ix

PART I: SECURITY FIRST: FOR US, THEM, AND THE WORLD I

- A. A Principled, Realistic Approach 2
- B. Policy Implications 8
- C. Implications for Failing States 14
- D. Implications for Newly Liberated Nations 19

PART II: THE LIMITS OF SOCIAL ENGINEERING 37

- A. A Primitive Art 37
- B. The Lessons of Democratization 42
- C. The Lessons of Reconstruction and Economic Development 58
- D. The Lessons of Nation-Building 76

PART III: THE TRUE FAULT LINE: WARRIORS VS. PREACHERS 85

- A. Fewer Enemies, More (Potential) Allies: The Global Importance of Illiberal Moderates 85
- B. Violent vs. Persuasive Beliefs in Three Religious Belief Systems 103

C. Violent and Persuasive Beliefs in Secular Theories of Social Change	127
D. Violent and Persuasive Beliefs in Islam	134
E. Illiberal Moderate Muslims: The Global Swing Vote	140
PART IV: THE IMPORTANCE OF MORAL CULTURE	152
A. The Soft Underbelly of Security	152
B. Religion's Key Role in U.S. Foreign Policy	173
PART V: GROUNDS FOR INTERVENTION	193
A. Whose Security? The Responsibility to Protect	193
B. Responsibility as an International Communitarian Principle	199
C. A Second Duty: To Prevent?	204
PART VI: SECURITY REQUIRES A NEW GLOBAL ARCHITECTURE	208
A. The Third Ought to Be First	209
B. Who Will Attack?	220
C. A Strategic Shift: From Controlled Maintenance to Deproliferation	234
D. Muscular, Moral Power	243
NOTES	249
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	295
INDEX	297