Our Beloved Kin
A New History of King Philip's War

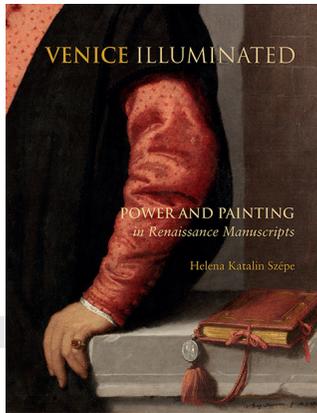

LISA BROOKS

In this compelling and original book the stories of Weetamoo, a female Wampanoag leader, and James Printer, a Nipmuc scholar, converge in 1676 with the captivity of Mary Rowlandson. Rigorous scholarship and creative narration recovers their story and leads us to a new, broader understanding of Native New England and colonial American origins.

“By making what we thought was a small story very large indeed —Ms. Brooks really does give us ‘A New History of King Philip’s War.’” —Wall Street Journal

Rooted Cosmopolitans
Jews and Human Rights in the Twentieth Century

JAMES LOEFFLER

The untold history of Zionism and human rights, recounted through the lives of five remarkable and forgotten Jewish activists.

“‘Human rights’ has . . . become a collection of attitudes and sociological signifiers, a vague term to be dismissed by realists and swooned over by idealists. . . . [This book] is a bracing and nuanced attempt to correct this—to restore a grave, complex, powerful idea by tracing it to the people . . . who argued it into existence.” —Martin Peretz, Wall Street Journal

Britain and Islam

A History from 622 to the Present Day

MARTIN PUGH

"Sweeping and humane. . . Pugh's survey of Britain's encounters with Islam undermines the fallacy that the Muslim experience and the Western experience must inevitably stand in opposition to each other; on the contrary, Britain and Islam helps us to see them as complementary parts of the same human story."

American Catholics

A History

LESLIE WOODCOCK TENTLER

A sweeping, comprehensive, and engaging history of American Catholicism from the arrival of the first Spanish missionaries to the present. "Tentler does justice to James Joyce's quip that Catholicism means 'here comes everybody.' This is the story of everybody who was part of the church in the United States, a story insightfully analyzed and admirably told."

—James M. O'Toole, author of The Faithful

Becoming Diaspora Jews

Behind the Story of Elephantine

KAREL VAN DER TOORN

Based on a previously unexplored source, this book transforms the way we think about the formation of Jewish identity. "In this erudite work, the Jewish community at Elephantine becomes a case study for a wide palette of issues, ranging from the emergence of Judaism to the negotiation of cultural boundaries."—Ronald Hendel, co-author of How Old Is the Hebrew Bible?

How the Gospels Became History

Jesus and Mediterranean Myths

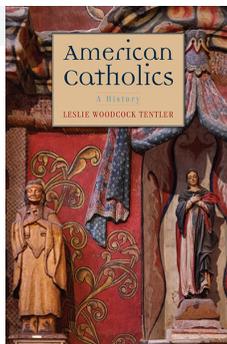

M. DAVID LITWA

A compelling comparison of the gospels and Greco-Roman mythology which shows that the gospels were not perceived as myths, but as historical records. "Litwa offers a philosophically sophisticated yet immanently accessible explanation of the relationship between history and myth in the early Christian gospels."—Clare K. Rothschild, author of Paul in Athens

Anger*The Conflicted History of an Emotion*

BARBARA H. ROSENWEIN

Taking the story of anger from the Buddha to Twitter, Barbara H. Rosenwein explores the many conflicting ways it has been viewed and expressed, its questionable connection with violence, and the limitations of its now ascendant scientific interpretations. Rosenwein shows that anger's history can help us grapple with it today.

MICHAEL S. ROTH

"Keywords like free speech, diversity, and safe spaces have become weaponized, littering higher education with political land mines. Thankfully, Michael Roth has cleared a path for us, offering a deeply reasoned argument about how we can return to the good-faith exploration of challenging ideas that are essential to the preservation of our democracy."

Standing for Reason*The University in a Dogmatic Age*

JOHN SEXTON

WITH A FOREWORD BY GORDON BROWN

"A forceful argument on behalf of the modern university. . . . Sexton argues that a university that returns to basic principles and extends its horizons offers a remedy to the madness of our current political discourse. . . . [He] clearly shows how less shouting and more listening can lead to a reclaiming of a lost middle ground."—Kirkus Reviews
