Radical Sacrifice

TERRY EAGLETON

Terry Eagleton pursues the concept of sacrifice through the history of human thought, from antiquity to modernity, in religion, politics, and literature. He sheds skewed perceptions of the idea, honing in on a radical structural reconception that relates the ancient world to our own in terms of civilization and violence.

Sin*A History*

GARY A. ANDERSON

In this sensitive, imaginative, and original work, Gary A. Anderson shows how changing conceptions of sin and forgiveness lay at the very heart of the biblical tradition. Spanning nearly two thousand years, the book brilliantly demonstrates how sin, once conceived of as a physical burden, becomes, over time, eclipsed by economic metaphors. These changing notions profoundly shaped both Jewish and Christian practices, provided a spur for the Protestant Reformation, and created a legacy that endures until today.

From Christ to Confucius

German Missionaries, Chinese Christians, and the Globalization of Christianity, 1860–1950

ALBERT MONSHAN WU

In this bold and original study, Albert Wu documents how German missionaries became surprising agents of secularization in Germany and, more broadly, Europe. Chastened by their failure to convert the Chinese to Christianity, these missionaries reconsidered their attitudes toward Chinese culture, catalyzing a revolution in thinking about Christianity itself.
